Our 2015 programme of events for the Marble Arch Caves Global Geopark is designed to embrace the ethos of UNESCO in hosting events within the Geopark area which reflect the rich geological, natural and cultural heritage of the border region of Counties Cavan and Fermanagh. The Geopark stretches throughout Counties Cavan and Fermanagh from Castle Caldwell on the northern shores of Lough Erne to Drumlane Abbey on the shores of Lough Oughter.

For 2015 we have compiled a comprehensive programme to cater for all interests: from family fun days, heritage and geology talks, food festivals to craft workshops and guided rambles. There is a mix of activities for all those interested in learning more about their Geopark. Events take place at a wide range of geologically and environmentally diverse sites including the recently developed Cavan Burren Park and the spectacular Marble Arch Caves, all showcasing some of the finest natural landscapes in Ireland and offering a window into the area’s 895 million year past. All of the locations for this year’s events cater to a wide variety of interests through a diverse range of recreational, educational and social activities.

Geoparks embrace local communities and a large number of our events are run in conjunction with local groups and our local tour guides. Geopark events are for everyone and offer a chance to discover or re-discover the wonderful heritage of the area.

For further information on upcoming events, latest news, Geopark sites and much more please visit our website www.marblearchcavesgeopark.com
